

Thanksgiving Proclamation of 1789

1 By the President of the United States of America, a Proclamation.
2 Whereas it is the duty of all Nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be
3 grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor-- and whereas both Houses of Congress
4 have by their joint Committee requested me to recommend to the People of the United States a day of public 5 thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of 6 Almighty God especially by affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their 7 safety and happiness.
8 Now therefore I do recommend and assign Thursday the 26th day of November next to be devoted by the 9 People of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being, who is the beneficent Author of all the 10 good that was, that is, or that will be-- That we may then all unite in rendering unto him our sincere and humble
11 thanks--for his kind care and protection of the People of this Country previous to their becoming a Nation--for 12 the signal and manifold mercies, and the favorable interpositions of his Providence which we experienced in the 13 course and conclusion of the late war--for the great degree of tranquility, union, and plenty, which we have 14 since enjoyed--for the peaceable and rational manner, in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions
15 of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national One now lately instituted--for the civil 16 and religious liberty with which we are blessed; and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful 17 knowledge; and in general for all the great and various favors which he hath been pleased to confer upon us.
18 and also that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and 19 Ruler of Nations and beseech him to pardon our national and other transgressions-- to enable us all, whether in 20 public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually--to render our 21 national government a blessing to all the people, by constantly being a Government of wise, just, and 22 constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed--to protect and guide all Sovereigns and 23 Nations (especially such as have shewn kindness unto us) and to bless them with good government, peace, and 24 concord--To promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the encrease of science among 25 them and us--and generally to grant unto all Mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as he alone knows to 26 be best.
27 Given under my hand at the City of New York the third day of October in the year of our Lord 1789.
